COURSE PRESENTATION

Prerequisite:

To take this course, the students should have successfully completed at least 2 semesters of university study and have some technical background and/or ability. They must have some ability to work as a group and be able to communicate easily in English. The course is aimed at a mix of profiles and interests for a more diverse project management experience; there is no specific course prerequisite.

Content:

The course is highly interactive and will provide students with methodological and practical tools to manage a project during their future careers. Students come from all over the world and from different programs in their home universities. This is one of the big strengths of this course as students will be exposed to other cultures and techniques in fields ranging from engineering and science to management and communication.

Consequently, before the course, students will fill in a questionnaire so that the content is adapted to their previous background and experiences.

Course sessions will include:

- Project and Project Management: definitions and characteristics.
- Breaking down a project into work packages (WBS).
- Scheduling (Scheduling software).
- Cost budgeting and Cost control (basis).
- Project manager competencies and skills.
- Team building.
- Risks & Opportunities.
- Good rules in Project Management.
- Functional analysis: Horned Beast and Octopus methods for design and innovation.

- Project Communication.
- Quality methods: Issue solving.
- Animation of a project review.
- Take stock of a project & Presentation of a project for a group.
- Wrap-up and evaluation.

During the training, there will be lecture sessions, interactive sessions and practical work on a specific deliverable.

Learning Outcomes:

By the end of the course, the students should be able to:

- Understand the methodology of Project Management as well as various aspects and specificities of team building.
- Utilize the main tools in Project Management, including Clarification Note, WBS, Schedule, Budget, Risks & Opportunities Analysis, Communication Plan.
- Organize themselves efficiently, implementing the Methodology and those main tools, to develop a project and present a project plan to a jury.

ASSESSMENT

Form	Number	Comments
Intermediate exam (20%)	1	In the middle of the course period: Individual exam including Multiple Choice Questions (1 hour)
Final project (50%)	1	At the start of the course, students receive some instructions about a project that they have to prepare during the course. They have to group with other students and define roles between themselves. At the end of the course, they will present their project results to a jury composed of the teacher (see above), other faculty members of the partner school as well staff members of partner universities. The jury will assess the results in comparison with the initial assessment but also with the other groups of the class. Quality of the project, thorough thinking on the study case and quality of the presentation will be taken into account for the grading.
Final exam (10%)	1	Final Multiple-Choice Questions (0.5 hours)
Other (student participation...) (20%)		Attendance, participation, and contribution to group discussion
